CLIFFORD

GOES TO WASHINGTON

Based on Scholastic Book and TV series.

In honor to Norman Bridwell and John Ritter.

Screenplay by

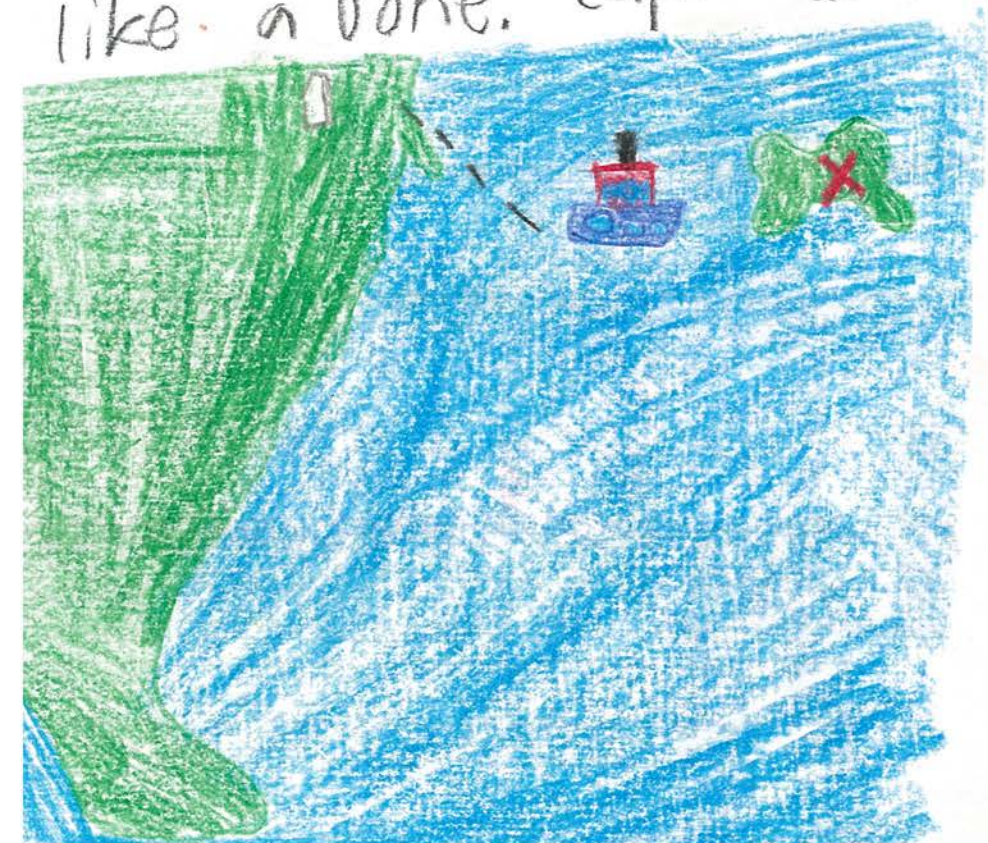

Michael deGroot

By 1941, right when the U.S. joined into WWII, Captain Bridwell brought his wife, Norma Bridwell to sail across the Atlantic Ocean. Captain Bridwell thought there's a Panama Canal in the south, but the wind blew north across a tropical storm, until the ship landed on an island that shaped like a bone. Captain Bridwell discovered a whole island. He decided to name it Bridwell Island. Since he's the author too, he wrote a book about Clifford in Washington D.C. In which leads to today!

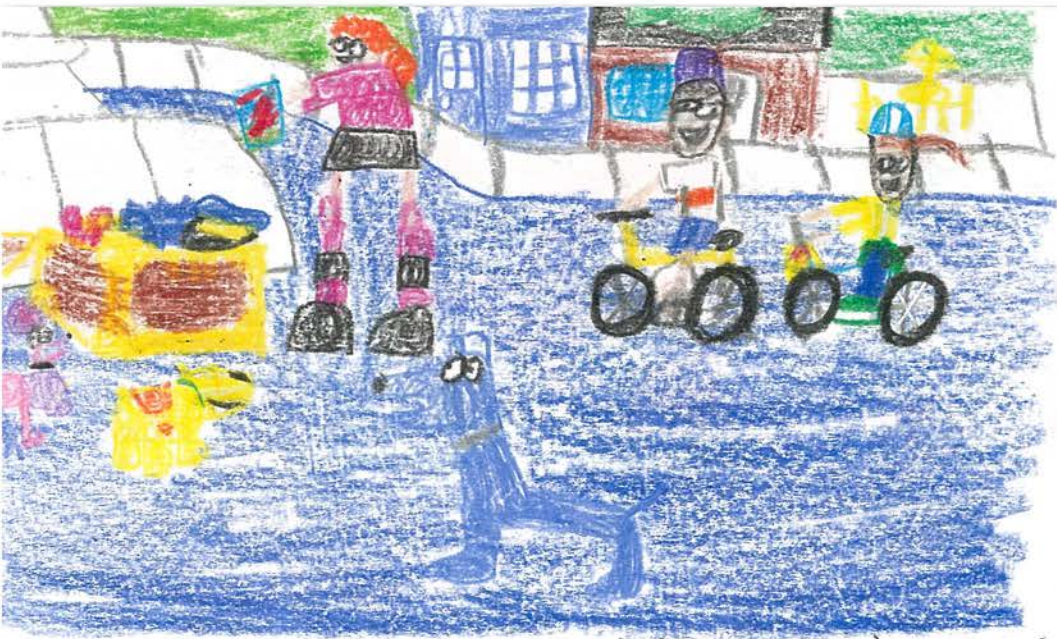

Today, Clifford, the Big Red Dog was teaching his friends: Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac how to play a game. "Okay, here's how the game goes!" Clifford said. "You guys cover your eyes, I bury the ball and you try to find it! The one who finds the ball, gets to bury it next!" "Great! Let's play," they said. "Okay, cover your eyes until I tell you to find it!" said Clifford. Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac covered their eyes and looked away, until Clifford burrys the ball.

Once when Clifford burrys the ball, Clifford called out, "Okay! Come and find it!" "Okay!" They said as Cleo, Mac, and T-Bone searched around. While Clifford whistles, first T-Bone smelled something already buried. "Hey, I smell something" T-Bone said as he dug, but the goopher was already living there. "Oops, sorry Mrs. Gopher!" said T-Bone. Next, Cleo dugged in and she found the ball. Cleo said, "Here it is! Here's the ball!" Clifford and T-Bone came over. Clifford said, "You found it! Great Cleo!" "Thanks Clifford!" Mac, Cleo found the ball! Come look! Mac Mac?" T-Bone said as he rushed to Mac. Mac didn't stop digging he found something too but didn't come out. "You can stop digging now Cleo found the ball!" T-Bone said. "I found something too, T-Bone!" Mac said too as he kept digging. "What's going on?" Clifford asked. "Mac found something!" T-Bone replied. "But I can't get it out!" Mac said. "Maybe we can help!" Clifford said as they help Mac dig.

Finally they dug up a treasure chest. "Wow!" Cleo gasped. "Ooohhh!!! What is it?" T-Bone asked. "Aaahhh, it looks like an old trunk!" Clifford said happily. "Maybe it's a treasure chest. Let's open it!" Mac said as he tried to open the trunk, but it's stuck! "I think it's locked!" "Why don't we take it to town to see if they can figure out a way to open it!" Clifford said. "Great idea!" Cleo jumped for joy.

Once when Clifford and his friend brought the trunk in to town, Cleo asked, "Where is everyone?" Then, Clifford saw Emily Elizabeth coming. He said, "Oh, look here comes Emily Elizabeth!" Clifford rushes to Emily Elizabeth and gave her a lick. "Hi Clifford Good boy!" Emily said. Clifford barked to show Emily Elizabeth what they found. "What is it, Clifford?" Emily asked. "Wow! what's this? It looks like an old, old treasure chest! I wonder what's inside?" Emily unlocked the hooks on the trunk and she opened the trunk. The trunk was filled with old clothes and has a book inside. "Wow! Those are really old clothes!" Emily Elizabeth gasped. "This looks like a hat and jacket to ship's captain or something. She looked at the jacket and hat. Then she looked at the pink dress. "Look at this dress! It's beautiful!" Emily Elizabeth gasped.

Finally, Emily Elizabeth picked up the book of Clifford in Washington D.C. She read it and said, "Look Clifford it's you and me!" Clifford gasped. Then, Emily Elizabeth's friends, Jetta and Charlie rode their bikes and saw what they found. "Wow! Look at Emily Elizabeth's dress and book!" Charlie gasped. "Look at all of those stuff! Where did it come from, Emily Elizabeth?" Jetta asked Emily Elizabeth explained, "Well, Jetta the dogs found the trunk somewhere in Bridwell Island. They carried the trunk into town. And I helped them open it." "You mean Captain Norman Bridwell's Treasure Chest?" Charlie asked, thoughtfully. "Captain Norman Bridwell?" Emily Elizabeth asked. "The author who wrote a series of Clifford, the Big Red dog and he came to life!" All the dogs gasped. "He's also the guy who discovered Bridwell Island. There's a painting in the library wearing this jacket and hat!" Charlie added, as he tried on the jacket and hat. "People has been looking for the trunk for a long time."

"Congratulations! Emily Elizabeth!" Jetta said with a compliment.
"Thanks, Jetta!" said Emily Elizabeth. "I bet they'll give you an award for finding it." Charlie announced. "An award?" Emily Elizabeth asked. "They'll probably have a big ceremony to honor you and the dogs!" said Charlie. "Come on! Let's go to the library and show Mrs. Lee what you found."

At the library that looks like a cruise ship, a librarian Mrs. Lee can't believe what Emily Elizabeth and the dogs found. She said, "This is really remarkable! So, the dogs found the trunk and you helped them open it?" "Yup!" said Emily Elizabeth. "And there's a book about me and Clifford in Washington D.C.!" Emily Elizabeth showed Mrs. Lee the book. Then Mrs. Lee had an idea, she said, "We'll have a ceremony to the people on Bridwell Island. And you'll be our special guest of honor!" "Wow!" said Emily Elizabeth.

Outside, Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac were staring at the window when Emily Elizabeth and her friends showed the trunk of clothes and book to Mrs. Lee. Clifford asked, "You don't think that Emily Elizabeth and I were in the book?" "I can't believe she's taking credit for this! But she knows I found the trunk!" said Cleo. "Uh, actually, Cleo, Mac found it!" Clifford said. "I think people would be great if the people believe it's us!" said Mac.

Latey in the afternoon, the special ceremony was about to begin. All the people were waiting and standing back for an announcement. Mrs. Lee helped Emily Elizabeth put on her dress. She said, "You must be the proudest young lady on Bridwell Island." I mean, I was very proud that the dogs found the trunk. "Yeah, thanks! I think the dogs should get the medal." Emily Elizabeth said. On stage, Sheriff Louis announced on a microphone, "Hello everyone and welcome! Will you please welcome on stage, a young lady, who can announce the dogs to found a lost trunk, Emily Elizabeth! Emily Elizabeth, the people of Bridwell Island would like to thank you for letting the dogs find the treasure chest. Now let's hear four our heroes of the day! Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Clifford. Now, your awards to go to Washington D.C." Everybody on Bridwell Island cheered for Emily Elizabeth.

"Really? Washington D.C. is going to be cool!" said Emily Elizabeth. "Can Clifford come to Washington D.C. with us?" Her parents came up and exclaimed, "It's too far for Clifford to walk." "But why?" Emily Elizabeth asked. "Dogs don't go on trips! They stay home!" said her parents. Emily Elizabeth felt very disappointed, even Clifford.

Soon Emily Elizabeth was about to leave for Washington D.C. with her parents. She said, "No, Clifford! I'm sorry that you can't come to Washington D.C." As soon as the ferry was packed with cases, her parents said, "Time to go, Emily Elizabeth!" Then, "Don't worry, Emily Elizabeth! Mac and I will help Clifford have a great time together!" Mac barked. "Right boy?" Mac barked. Clifford felt very disappointed.

Later during sunset, Clifford still misses Emily Elizabeth and Jetta and Mac are having a great time playing. Jetta was feeding Mac Scooby Snacks. Mac asked "Clifford, don't you want to feed Scooby Snacks with me?" Clifford didn't pay attention to Mac. Then, Mr. Bleakman stopped by at Jetta's house. He talked to Jetta, "Good evening, Jetta!" "Hi Mr. Bleakman!" said Jetta. "What are you doing here?" "I just want to check and see how Clifford's doing!" Mr. Bleakman said. "He's over there thinking about Emily Elizabeth!" said Jetta as she pointed to Clifford. Mr. Bleakman came over and explained, "Clifford do you miss Emily Elizabeth? Aww, she won't be gone for a long time, she'll be home soon! If you still miss her so much, come stay with me!" Right when Mr. Bleakman walked away Clifford was so lonely, he began to howl as loud as he can.

Far away in Washington D.C., Emily Elizabeth and her parents were watching the Greatest Show on Earth. The President Showman announced, "Ladies and Gentlemen! Children of all ages! Welcome to the Greatest Show on Earth!" Every one in the audience applauded, except Emily Elizabeth. "May I present you, Leo the Lion!" Said the president showman. Leo bounced onto the ball. "And now here's the greatest elephant on Earth, Gordon! Along with his sickle monkey, Frankie!" The President Showman announced. Gordon walked around raising Frankie up high. "Isn't this much fun?" The dad asked. "Yeah it is!" Emily Elizabeth said, sadly. "Now, may I present to you, the star of our show, Shackel Ford! Who will balance on a coward high wire friend, Dorothy!" Said the President

Up above the high wire, Dorothy walked across the high wire tight rope. Shackelford, the blue mermaid, swung across the monkey bars and on top of Dorothy. "Catch Shackelford!" said the president showman as he tossed the bowling pins. Shackelford juggled the bowling pins. Everybody cheered, except Emily Elizabeth. "Why aren't you watching?" asked the mom. "Because I miss Clifford," said Emily Elizabeth as she burst into tears. Then, Shackelford heard Emily Elizabeth crying. He asked, "Oh, Dorothy?" "Yes, Shackelford she answered. "Why is one audience not enjoying the show and start crying?" He asked. "I don't know!" said Dorothy. "Why?" Shackelford heard the howl coming from Birdwell Island. He said, as he saw, "It might be that little girl misses her best dog on the Island." "Do you want to go there, okay?" said Dorothy as she grabbed onto the tight rope and tilt upside down. The high wire bend. The audience gasped to know what's happening, even

The President showman tried to catch Dorothy by saying "I gotchy Dorothy!" Right when Dorothy let go of the wire, Shackelford cried, "Dorothy don't let go!" Dorothy explained, "That little girl wants her dog back! Make him come to Washington DC! Good Luck! Hope you found your way!" With a mighty pull, Dorothy let go of the tight rope and Shackelford flew high in the sky all the way across the Atlantic Ocean. Dorothy was too heavy and she fell on top of the president showman. He announce to the audience, "It's alright everybody! It's all under control folks! Don't need to panic!" President Showman saw the audience leaving, Leo came over to him. He said, "Oh Leo, we will find Shackelford and make this show go on!"

Later that night Clifford was sadly asleep. Jetta and Mac came over and said "Clifford, are you feeling okay?"

Clifford burst into tears. "I know! Emily Elizabeth misses you too! But she'll be home soon!" Added Jetta as she gave Clifford a kiss. When Jetta came inside and Mac slept next to him. Clifford said sadly, "I miss Emily Elizabeth."

Suddenly, Clifford heard a noise scream. He asked, "Uh, Mac? What's that noise?" "I don't know?"

"What?" Mac asked. Then, Shackelford screamed as he flew across Bridwell Island and landed into Jetta's front yard. "Ah, it might be a mexa cat!" Mac said. When Shackelford got up he saw Clifford and Clifford asked, "Uh, are you okay?" Shackelford was afraid of Clifford.

He said, "Please, don't eat me!" "I will not eat you!"
said Clifford. "Then, what do you want?" Shackelford asked. "Like what are you doing on Bridwell Island?"
Clifford asked. Shackelford explained, "Well, glad you asked. I heard the little girl at the circus crying that she missed her dog, howling. So, I came to see what's the matter!" "You mean, Emily Elizabeth?" Clifford asked. "Yeah, yeah!" said Shackelford. "So tell me why are you crying?" Clifford told the reason, Emily Elizabeth's parents told her that it's too far for me to walk and I must stay with Jetta and Mac!" Shackelford explained to Clifford, "Well, it is pretty far to walk, but if you take a first step, swim across the Atlantic Ocean, then look for Emily Elizabeth all around Washington, D.C."
"But wait!" Shackelford "Clifford I just..."

Shackelford interrupted Clifford and said, "Well, if it's ~~no~~ dog, then go out there and find her!" "Well, okay," said Clifford. Right when Clifford left Jetta's house with Shackelford, Mac's not sure if Clifford could go or not. So, Mac said, "Alright, fine. Wait for me!"

First, Clifford, Mac, and Shackelford came to T-Bone dog house.

"Uh, T-Bone!" Clifford called out. "Clifford? What are you doing here?" T-Bone asked. "I'm leaving!" Clifford said. "Well, where you going?" T-Bone asked. "I'm going to Washington D.C. and find Emily Elizabeth." Clifford explained. "Clifford, are you sure? Maybe you waited..." T-Bone asked. "I can't wait, T-Bone!" Clifford said. "Can I come with you?" T-Bone asked. "Sure!" Clifford said. T-Bone jumped onto Clifford.

Next Clifford, Shackelford, Mac, and T-Bone came to Cleo's doghouse. "Cleo, where are you?" Clifford asked. "I'm right here!" said Cleo. "Why you asked?" "I miss Emily Elizabeth and I'm going to Washington D.C." Clifford explained. "Really?"

"We're not letting you go on a great big adventure with us!" Cleo said. "Do you want to come with us?" Clifford asked. "Absolutely, come on! Let's get a move on! My fans are waiting!" Cleo said excitedly. Cleo jumped onto Clifford and danced like a ballerina.

The next morning, Clifford and his friends set out to find Emily Elizabeth. Clifford sniffed his way along the beach. He began to swim across the Atlantic Ocean.

When, Jetta got up, got dressed, and she ran out to the door Jetta saw that Clifford and Mac were gone. "Clifford! Mac! Hmmy I wonder where they could be?" Jetta asked thoughtfully. Then, she stared down at her sweater.

Right when Clifford swam with Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Shackelford, to shore, Clifford jumped on to the dock and shook. "Where are we?" T-Bone asked. "Doh, look at all the cars! All of the buildings!" Cleo gasped. "That's right!" Clifford said. "This is Baltimore! Where I grew up as a puppy!"

When all of the people were walking around Baltimore, suddenly, the officer heard the ground shaking from Clifford coming to town. The woman said, "That's the giant dog I ever seen!" The officer spoke onto a microphone, "Uh, Paul, could you get the cops?" When Clifford walks the dogs and Shackelford down into the city, people were getting away from Clifford. People were feeling scared of Clifford. "These people were acting really strange! What's up with them?" T-Bone Cleo asked. "I think it's us that is up with them!" T-Bone gasped. Cleo saw the people getting away from Clifford. She said, "I think they're scared." "Of what?" Clifford asked. Cleo pointed the reason to Clifford, "Of me?" Added Clifford. "I'm afraid so, big guy!" Said Cleo. Then the cops surrounded Clifford and his friends, "Looks like we got company!" Shackelford cried. "We've got to hide now! Come on!" Clifford ran away from the cops.

Once Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Shackelford hid in the corner, Clifford asked, "Now what?" "We need a plan!" said Shackelford. "Are you sure?" T-Bone asked, "Have I ever star you wrong?" Cleo asked. "Stay close and follow me!" Shackelford said, immediately. Clifford and his friends sneaked away from the cops.

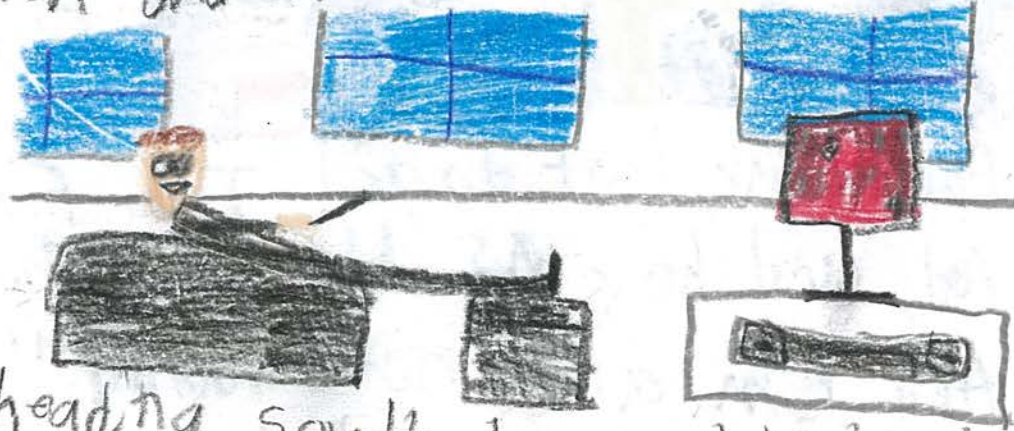

Meanwhile, back on Bridwell Island, Jetta rode her bike to the beach. She saw Charlie standing out on the beach. "Charlie, any luck?" Jetta asked. "No, did you check by Sheriff Louis and Mrs. Dillar?" Charlie asked. "They said Cleo and T-Bone are gone too!" said Jetta. "Well, they're not on an island any more," said Charlie. "I think you're right! Look!" Jetta said, pointing out Clifford's foot print. "Where did he think he went?" Charlie asked. "I don't know. But maybe he went with Cleo and T-Bone to Washington D.C." "Really? Well then, we gotta Back at Washington D.C., the President showman changed out of his circus suit and changed into a presidential suit. Then he sat down on a couch and watched the news on TV.

On BBC news, the news reporter announced, "This morning, we found out soon enough that a giant reddest dog retriever rammed across Baltimore and now he's heading south toward Washington D.C." The President showman pressed pause. He thought of an evil plan. He said, "Ahah, perfect! I'll capture that enormous dog and then present him to the circus! Although, I wish Shackelford could be back with that gigantic dog!"

Meanwhile, Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac and Shackelford came to a toll bridge. Clifford had no money. Cleo asked, "We had no money where should we

Back on Bidwell Island, inside Mr. Bleakman's house, Mr. Bleakman was making a phone call to help find Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac. He called out, "Hello? I'm calling for Four lost dogs! The first one is extremely friendly, and he's as big as a house! No, I am not kidding!" As soon as Mr. Bleakman hung up, he put his hand on to Jetta's shoulder and said, "Don't worry, we'll find him." "I know we will. Thanks."

Mr. Bleakman, "Jetta said with a hug. Mean white, before they found Emily Elizabeth, Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Shackelford did some sight seeing. Cleo shouted, "Clifford check this guy out!" When they got inside, T-Bone said

Clifford answered "His name is Abraham Lincoln. My favorite statue." "How did you know that Abraham Lincoln is your favorite statue, Clifford?" Mac asked. "Because Abraham Lincoln was the 16th president and he's known as honest abe." Clifford explained to Mac. "Yeah, but we need to find Emily Elizabeth right now!" Said Shackelford. "Right!" They said.

Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac and Shackelford were ready to find Emily Elizabeth, but they could not find her anywhere. "I don't see Emily Elizabeth at all!" T-Bone gasped. Then Clifford spotted the Washington Monument, but the line was very long and they didn't have enough time. Clifford figured out a faster way to get to the top. He said, "Let's hop to the top of the Washington Monument for a better view." Shackelford looked out very close to find Emily Elizabeth. Then

He shouted, "There she is!" Then, Shackelford saw President Shawne making a speech at the White House. He hid in the back of Clifford. "What's going on Shackelford?" T-Bone asked. Shackelford answered, "There's President Shawman who wants to capture all the animals for his circus!" "I don't know, Shackelford," said Clifford. "Maybe he's up to a great speech with Emily Elizabeth. She'll be so happy when he comes up to her." The view was breathtaking. But Clifford and his friends couldn't stay long. Right when Clifford hopped off the Washington Monument, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac and Shackelford tried to warn Clifford, "No, Clifford! Don't!" But Clifford didn't pay attention to his doggy friends including Shackelford. He was rushed to the White House.

When they got to the White House just in time, Cleo, Shackelford, and Mac peeked over the fence. T-Bone tried to jump high to see Emily Elizabeth. He shouted, "Let me see!" Clifford While Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Shackelford was listening behind the fence, Emily Elizabeth was standing on the lawn with President Showman. President Showman announced during the speech "Hello and welcome! May I introduce a young lady who found Captain Bridwell's long, lost trunk, Emily Elizabeth!" Everyone cheered. Emily Elizabeth is a little worried about Clifford. "May I give you a special award for finding the trunk, a citizenship medal" President Showman said, happily, as he showed Emily Elizabeth the medal.

Clifford so happy to see Emily Elizabeth, he jumped over the fence with Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Shackelford. A bunch of guards were surprised to see the dogs and a big red dog and Shackelford, including President Showman. In fact, the guards tried to tackle Clifford because President Showman told them, "Guards get that dog!" Emily Elizabeth was so happy to see Clifford again she shouted, "That's my dog! Clifford belongs to me! Clifford!" Emily Elizabeth tried to run up to Clifford, but the guards guarded her. But Clifford led out his paw to hop on Clifford, and his friends were being chased by the guards and President Showman.

Meanwhile, when Mr. Bleakman, Jetta and Charlie arrived at the ferry dock, Charlie looked at the New York Times and saw Clifford walking through Baltimore. Jetta looked at the Washington Post and saw Clifford jump over the fence and into the White House lawn. Both Jetta and Charlie are surprised. In fact, they shouted, "Mr. Bleakman! Read the papers!" Mr. Bleakman read both papers out loud, "Big Red Dog attacks the city? And Big Red Dog ruins Washington ceremony? That must be Clifford!"

Meanwhile, while Emily Elizabeth was riding in the back of Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Shackelford were being chased by President Showman and the guards around the White House. Then, they came inside the White House and closed the door. "Where are we?" asked Clifford. "I don't know?" asked T-Bone. They looked around and saw clean animals in cage.

Clifford asked,
"Shackelford, why
are the circus animals locked in cages?"

Shackelford was nervous to know what happened to circus animals, so he sadly explained the reason, "Well, the President showman captured all the animals to join in his circus and he never send them free!"

"So does that mean, Clifford will be captured too?" Cleo asked, suddenly, President showman and the guard found Clifford and his friends inside the white house. President Showman said, with his evil laugh, "Well, well, it seems to me that you're already at the circus. You're my dog now!" "No, he's not!" Shouted Emily Elizabeth in the back. "Guards, get that little girl away from my dog!"

President Showman said, frustratedly. "Clifford, Run!" Emily Elizabeth said, Clifford's nervous about leaving Emily Elizabeth.
Shackelford told Clifford, "We don't have time to rescue that little girl now! You have to save yourself! We're here to help!
Shackelford release the circus animals by pressing the lever!"

Suddenly the guards were chasing Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, Shackelford, and the circus animals. Leo jumped in to scare them. Cleo and T-Bone jumped over the guards with a net. Shackelford said, "let's get outta here!" "Hop on!" said Clifford. "This way!" said Dorothy. Clifford and his friends tried to get away from the guards. The circus animals escaped from the window. When Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac came to the front hall, the guards are coming closer. They said, "There they are, get them!"

Clifford can't figure out to get away from the guards. So he slid on the railings of the white house. Shackelford found Clifford and his friends sliding. He called out, "Come on, Clifford, more!" After Clifford slid down, he flew out to the tower. Shackelford swung along the ceiling. Later, he grabbed Clifford's tail.

Once when, Clifford, Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, and Shagkelford came out of the White House, the guards surrounded Clifford and his friends. The lion was in the way too. They Jetta and Charlie swung on the rope to get the guards and the lion out of the way. Jetta and Charlie were so happy to see Clifford again. Jetta said, "Clifford! It's good to see you again!" Clifford licked Jetta! She said, "Eww!" Charlie was happy to see Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac, but Charlie asked, "Where's Emily Elizabeth?" "I'm right here!" said Emily Elizabeth. "Clifford!" "But how did you..." Jetta exclaimed. But Mr. Bleak man came over with President Showman arrested with the two police officers. He interrupted, "Actually, we came over to save you and Emily Elizabeth and he is going to jail now!" See!" The police officers arrested President Showman. Clifford was so happy to see Emily Elizabeth once again. He gave her a lick. Then Shagkelford came over and said, "Hey Clifford, thanks for helping me!" "Thanks for rescuing me!" said Clifford. "He's such a good pal!"

"So now, without a showman, where are we going to do a circus?"
"Yeah, I need a best buddy to dance in the circus!" said Gordon.
"Well, we always have a circus back at Birdwell Island," said Clifford.

Back on Birdwell Island, a new showwoman announce at the circus, "Ladies and gentlemen! Presenting the amazing Gordon the great elephant and Clifford the Big Red Dog!!"
Emily Elizabeth, her parents, Jetta, Charlie, and Mr. Bleakman cheered for Clifford,
Cleo, T-Bone, Mac, Shackelford, Frankie, Dorothy and Gordon. All of the clowns and Aerobats did tricks on them. Gordon carried Frankie Dorothy and Shackelford, then Clifford carried Cleo, T-Bone, and Mac.
"Thank you Gordon! This is one of the most entire days in my whole life!" "Me too, Clifford! You know everything is more fun with a good friend!" said Gordon
