

the cat. Coraline followed the cat down stairs to look at the mirror. The mirror showed the mom and the dad freezing with Frank and Casey. "Mom! Dad!" Coraline cried. The mom wrote on the glass saying, "Help us." Coraline thought they're in the mirror. Coraline broke the mirror real hard, but her parents are still not found. "How did this happen?" Coraline asked. Coraline followed the cat back to her mom and dad's room. The cat pulled out the button eyed dolls of each side showing her parents. "The other mother has taken them!" Coraline gasped. Coraline brought the doll downstairs to the living room and threw the doll into the fireplace to burn it up. "They are not coming back are they? Mom and dad. Not on their own. They don't remember how they were captured before, right?" Coraline said, sadly. "I'm afraid not, but remember you found the pin on the old well?" The cat asked. "Well, yeah, but it stopped working. I may need to find a new one at the Blast from the Past Superstore." Coraline exclaimed. "Wait a minute! That's it! If I take you to the Blast from the Past Superstore someone will help you find the way to your parents," The cat told Coraline. "Only one thing to do," Coraline said, bravely. Coraline went upstairs to get dressed, put her raincoat on, and put on the police hat. Coraline copied the address to the Blast from the Past Superstore and signed up for a bus trip to Los Angeles, California. Then, she packed up her purse of bush cutters and the pin. Coraline walked out of the mansion with the cat to the bus stop. While Coraline's waiting for the bus, the cat said "You know you're leaving, right?" "I have to go find my parents," Coraline told the cat. "While you're in the Blast from the Past Superstore, someone will tell you about the future," The cat explained. "What future?" Coraline asked. "Tomorrowland!" The cat answered. "What is Tomorrowland?" Coraline asked. "Tomorrowland is a place in the future that some one named it after a Disneyland Park," The cat explained. "That's exactly what I pictured!" Coraline said. "They may ask you who may give the pin to you," The cat explained. "No one gave it to me!" Said Coraline. "But they end up with a trap!" The cat exclaimed. "Mmm, okay!" Said Coraline. Soon, the bus arrived. Coraline hopped on the bus with the cat. The bus went to Los Angeles, California. When the bus arrived at Los Angeles, California, right next to the Blast from the Past Superstore. Coraline got off the bus and crossed the street with the cat.

When Coraline arrived in front of the Blast from the Past Superstore with the cat, Coraline told the cat, "You stay here until I come back out." When Coraline walked inside the Blast from the Past Superstore, Coraline saw a lady shopkeeper watching TV. She asked, "Hello?" A lady shopkeeper turned around with her buttoned eyes. She said, "Sales week. Month free sales. 70% Off." "You didn't have... b-b-b-b..." Coraline gasped. "Buttons?" A lady shopkeeper answered. "Someone rebuilt me with buttons on my eyes, but there's bunches of sales. 70% off." "Oh, no thanks. I'm not here to buy anything. I was hoping you can tell me about this," Coraline exclaimed as she showed a lady shopkeeper the pin. She called out, "Hugo?" Hugo opened the door and announced, "Welcome to the Blast From the Past..." But Hugo got stuck in the door. "Hugo Kerns and Ursula, how can I help you?" Hugo asked. "She has the pin." Ursula told Hugo. "I saw you're looking for one online," Coraline said. "Where did you get it?" Hugo asked. "What can you tell me about it?" Coraline asked. "I can't tell anything about it unless you tell me who gave it to you," Hugo exclaimed.

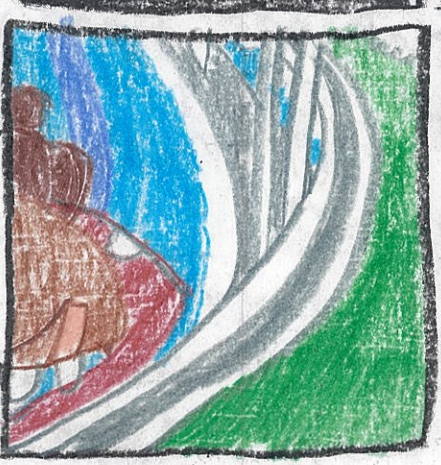

"I'm not going first," Coraline smiled. "It seems our business here is done," Hugo shrugged. "Seemed it is," Coraline groaned. Right when Coraline walked out of the store, Hugo continued, "Saw something didn't you? When you touched it, something incredible. "It's real?" Coraline asked, thoughtfully. "Of course it is! Don't blast me out, these people has developed technologies that we haven't dreamed of yet!" Hugo chuckled. "Wait, what people?" Coraline asked, thoughtfully. Hugo started to explain, "Have you ever wonder what would happen to artists, scientists, the most creative people in the world, who was smart to actually change the world. They put up a secret place, where they can build where ever they were crazy enough to imagine." "Tomorrowland!" Coraline smiled. "Tomorrowland!" Ursula answered. "Like, at Disney?" Coraline asked, thoughtfully. "Oh, honey, it comes from a Disneyland Park snooping around," Ursula explained, too. "Oh, Walt was one of them. After the World's Fair's over, he moved it to Disneyland park." "What ride?" Coraline asked, thoughtfully. "I think we shared enough, young lady. So, as we decided to trust you, please trust us and tell me, where did you get it?" Hugo asked. "Oh, uh, I don't know?" Coraline answered. "What do you mean, honey?" Ursula asked. "I found this pin on top of the oak

Well, "Coraline exclaimed, Ursula pressed the button. The noise came across the store. "What was that?" Coraline asked. "Tell us who gave it to you please?" Hugo asked. "No one gave it to me!" Coraline said. "It's very unlikely sweetheart," Ursula said. "You know what? I think I should go now. Thanks for your help," Coraline said right when she walked away, but Hugo grabbed her hand. He said, immediately "Thousand dollars, if you tell me who required the pin." "I don't know!" Coraline shouted "Ten thousand," said Hugo. "Little girl, little girl?" Ursula glitched. "I don't know what are you guys are talking about! Have a nice day! Enjoy your freak out!" Coraline said, immediately. Right when Coraline waked out of the Blast From the Past Super store, Hugo and Ursula hold out the gun. Hugo shouted, angrily, "Tell me where she is and you will be spared!" "This is the joke, right?" Coraline cried. Ursula shot the ceiling and asked, sternly, "Where's the girl?" Something fell off the ceiling and they looked up. Coraline tried to run away, but Ursula tried to shoot Coraline, but missed her. Coraline put her police hat in her purse. Coraline tried to hide from Hugo and Ursula, but she bumped into an action figure and Hugo and Ursula found her. Hugo said, angrily, "You will tell us about the girl!" "I don't know any girl," Coraline cried. "I told you I...

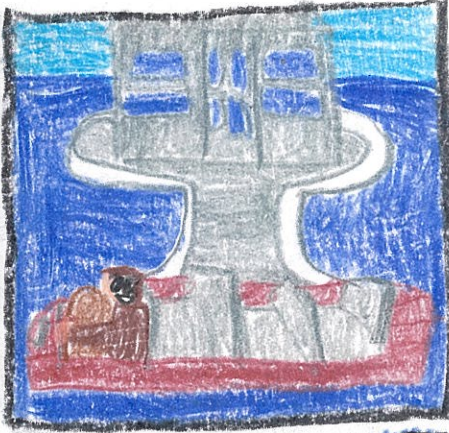

"WHERE IS THE GIRL?!" Hugo shouted. "I don't know any girl!" Coraline yelled back. Suddenly, the door broke open. The cat ran inside and jumped up to attack Hugo and Ursula. Then, Athena came inside and said, "We need to go or you will die!" The cat scratched out both Hugo's and Ursula's buttoned eyes. Ursula + threw the cat toward Coraline. Coraline caught the cat. Ursula said, "Girl!" She tried shooting Athena, but she missed her. Athena kicked off their guns. Hugo threw Athena to the armor robot. Ursula dragged Coraline away, but throw a plastic toy at her. Coraline bent the wall statue onto Hugo Ursula grabbed the stick. Coraline shouted, "Look out!" Ursula charged the stick toward Athena, but Athena flipped over and grabbed off Ursula's head. The stick stabbed Hugo's AI heart. Athena pushed Coraline out of the Blast From the Past Superstore, saying "We have to go! They're about to self-destruct! We have to go now!" The cat ran out of the Blast From the Past Superstore too. Right Athena, Coraline, and the cat made it out of the Blast from the Past Superstore, Hugo exploded out the Blast from the Past Superstore. Athena pushed Coraline with the cat in the car. She told Coraline, "Get in the car, Coraline!" Coraline gasped, "How do you know my name?" "Just get in the car," Athena told Coraline again. Athena got in the car also, started the car, and drove away from the damaged Blast From the Past Superstore. On their way, Coraline asked, "What just happened?" Athena answered, "I saved your life. They self-destructed." "Were they 'A's'?" Coraline asked. "Automated animatronics," Athena answered. "They were robots." Coraline asked again. "Sure, okay, robots!" Athena agreed. "How do you know my name and how are you driving a car? Who are you?" Coraline asked. "I'm from the future, Coraline! My name is Athena." Athena introduced herself. "The future? You mean Tomorrowland?" Coraline asked, thoughtfully. "That's why I'm the one who gave you the pin," Athena said. "The pin!" Coraline said. "Yes, and that's why I'm taking you to Disneyland," Athena exclaimed.

"But my parents didn't buy any tickets!" Coraline exclaimed. "I already have the tickets for us!" Athena said, as she held out the tickets. "If we're going to Disneyland, how do we get to Tomorrowland?" Coraline asked. The cat explained, "Maybe, perhaps Athena will explain how to get to Tomorrowland. "Did you know that cat can talk?" Coraline asked. "I know your cat can talk," Athena exclaimed. "It's not my cat, it was Wybie's," Coraline said.

"Your friend Wybie wants you to keep that cat," Athena exclaimed. "My parents won't mind letting me keep..." Coraline tried to exclaim, but she remembered her parents. "Mom Dad,"

The cat asked, "Yeah, can you help me find my parents?" Coraline asked. "I can," said Athena. "So, how do we get to Tomorrowland?" Coraline asked. Athena explained the whole story. "There's a boy genius name Frank Walker. He traveled to the New York World's Fair back in 1964. Frank shared his jet pack invention and I liked him. I gave Frank a pin. He followed me on the It's a Small World ride. He slid down to an underground subway time machine that takes him to Tomorrowland. He flew his jet pack all over Tomorrowland. When Frank came to me, he asked, 'So, what is this place?'" I showed Frank all around Tomorrowland. "So where's It's a Small World ride now?" Coraline asked. "Disneyland California!" Athena answered. "Small World!" Coraline said to herself.

Athena Herself Coraline Herself (Interrupted)

Coraline: Wait, you're telling the story about you and Frank Walker back in your childhood?

Athena: They need to know how to get to Tomorrowland!

Coraline: But what about you, me, and my cat finding my parents?

The Cat: Keep telling the story!

Coraline: Okay! Got it!

Story

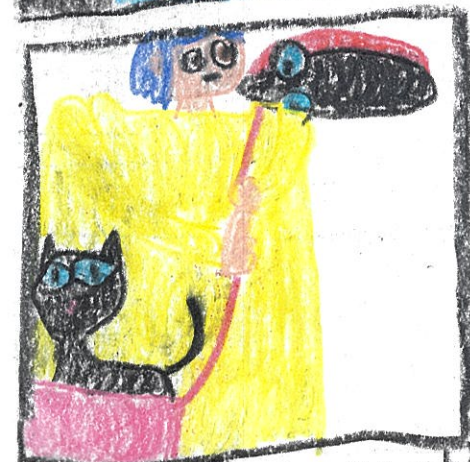

When Coraline, Athena, and the cat arrived at Disneyland Park entrance, they came up to the Disneyland ticket entrance. The ticket master announced "Hello, welcome to Disneyland Park! Tickets please!" "Here you go!" Athena said, as she handed out the tickets. "Thank you!" said the ticket master. When Coraline, Athena, and the cat walked into the Disneyland Park, Coraline asked, "Where's the Small World ride?" The cat answered, "Follow the Map."

Coraline grabbed the map. While they're walking to the It's a Small World ride, the cat asked, "Why are you going to Tomorrowland?" "They are my parents," Coraline answered. The cat explained, "Challenger then. She may not play fair, but she won't refuse. She got things for games." "Mum, okay," said Coraline. When Coraline, Athena, and the cat arrived at the Tomorrowland experience, Athena told Coraline, "Then it is! That's where your parents will be at." "In Tomorrowland, right?" said Coraline. "Since your old pin stopped working, here's the new pin that you can wear while riding on It's a Small World ride to Tomorrowland. Don't get spotted!" Athena told Coraline as she gave her a new pin. "Are you going to take me there?" Coraline asked. "I sure am!" "Follow me!" Athena told Coraline. Coraline and

The cat followed Athena to the It's a Small World ride. They saw Athena squeezing through the line. "Excuse me, sorry," Coraline said as she squeezed through the line too. They saw a ride operator told Athena, "Whoah, whoah, whoah, sorry, folks! You're gonna have to wait for the next boat!" Athena ran a shortcut, hopped over the railing, and onto the boat. Coraline and the cat took a shortcut, hopped over the railing, and onto the boat next to Athena, too. "I'm right here!" said Coraline.

"Once when we go through just need to find a clue," Athena told Coraline. "Okay," said Coraline. Athena, Coraline, and the cat rode through the It's a Small World attraction. Soon, when they reach up to the Eiffel tower, it scanned the pin. The boat stopped. Then, the boat slid down the water slide and splashed down in the dark underground water floor. "Hello?" Coraline called out. When the boat stopped next to the subway, the voice said, "Good afternoon, please step aboard the transport. The site is active." Coraline, Athena, and the cat got off the boat and walked into the subway. The voice continued, "Please, put on your head protection in order to prevent significant injury."

The voice continued, "Please, put on your head

"Injury?" Coraline asked, thoughtfully. Suddenly, the windows and doors were shut. "Transport will commence in 10 seconds," the voice said. "Coraline, get the head protection!" Athena called out. Coraline tried to reach for the head protection, but she's too short. "I'm not tall enough!" Coraline said "Hurky!" Athena shouted. "5, 4, 3, 2, 1!" The voice counted down. The subway time machine zig-zaged through time until it stopped. Coraline, Athena and the cat got up. The door opened. They walked out of the subway time machine into the future. "So, what is this place?" Coraline asked. "Tomorrowland" Athena answered. Coraline saw a flying vehicle zooming through the clouds. Coraline rushed underneath "Do Not Enter" Gate. "Coraline, wait! Don't go over there!" Athena shouted as she followed Coraline. Coraline stopped at the edge with the cat. When Athena came up, Coraline looked down and up and saw futuristic machines building over the bridge. Robot stood up front of Coraline and the cat working on construction. The box pulled Athena off the bridge. Athena called out "Coraline, help me!" Coraline rushed over to grab Athena, but she slid off the bridge. "Aaahhh!!!" Coraline and Athena screamed. They landed at the bottom bridge. Luckily, no one was hurt. "Are you okay, Coraline?" Athena asked. "I'm fine," said Coraline. Suddenly, Coraline saw